Dear Mr Taylor

I write to inform you of the results achieved by the United Kingdom team of Competitors in the recent International Youth Skill Olympics held in Sydney, Australia. The enclosed "Interim report" is a brief statement prepared for my Council, but an Official version will be produced in due course which will contain a great deal more information. It will be my pleasure to send you a copy as soon as it becomes available.

I trust that you will be pleased with the achievements of the team, and in particular your own employee. We were very proud of each competitor who conducted themselves throughout their stay in Australia in a very commendable manner. They were excellent ambassadors of their home country and gave of their very best in competition. There is no doubt that the experience of working with the world's finest young craft persons affords a unique opportunity to broaden one's outlook.

May I on behalf of my organisation take this opportunity to thank you for your support which I am sure made a significant contribution to the overall result.

Yours sincerely

W.W. Norris
